MAUI NEWS.

Funeral Obsequies of Mr. A. R. Laws.

The death of Mr. A. R. Laws of Hamakua occurred during Monday night, the 23d inst. The sad event was not a surprise to his many friends in Makawao district, as he had been lying dangerously ill for more than a week previous, and had been suffering from a fatal disease during the past six months. The sorrow of the community was sincere and heartfelt, not only out of deep sympathy to the bereaved ones—Mrs. A. R. Laws and Mr. and Mrs. H. Laws—but also on its own account, the loss to society of that which is so rare in life—an honest man, an intelligent citizen, a Christian gentleman.

The last sad rites took place at Paia Foreign Church during Wednesday morning, the 25th inst., in the presence of a goodly number of people wishing to pay the last token of respect to their deceased friend and neighbor. The tolling of the bell announced the approach of the funeral train from Hamakua, and soon, very soon, the congregation sang the hymns and Revs. O. H. and T. L. Gulick said the final words of prayer and eulogy.

The following biographical facts are taken from the remarks of the last named gentleman: Mr. A. R. Laws was born in Philadelphia some sixty-four and a half years ago, and the family of which he was a member included five brothers and two sisters, all but one of whom survive him. Soon after reaching mature years he removed to Ohio, and for thirty-nine years was engaged in business in Cincinnati. During the last five years he has been a resident of Hawaii, spending the time in Kohala and Hamakua. For thirty-five years he has believed in Christianity, was an earnest and successful Sunday School teacher in Cincinnati, always a close Bible student, with a strong, intellectual liking for scientific and philosophical investigation which tended in any way to reveal truth.

After the service, the cortege moved onward up the mountain slope to the burial ground of the old Foreign Church in Makawao. Here Rev. T. L. Gulick read a simple service and soon all was finished.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Miss Kate Ritchie has resigned the principalship of the Waikapu School, owing to ill health.

Rev. and Mrs. O. H. Gulick and Miss Catherine Gulick depart to day for Berkeley, California, via Honolulu, intending to make quite a visit there before their return to Japan.

Mr. F. H. Hayselden has resigned the sheriffship of Maui, and has given over the affairs of office into the hands of L. A. Andrews, Deputy Sheriff of Makawao. Query: Who is to be our next sheriff?

Mr. Warren Goodale is visiting Mr. and Mrs. George E. Beckwith.

Miss Alma Hitchcock, LL. B. of Hilo, is also a guest at Haiku.

Miss Mary Hitchcock returned to Hilo on Wednesday last, after a pleasant stay at Mrs. H. G. Alexander's.

Mr. McVeigh has resigned the chief engineership of the Kahului R. R. Co. Mr. Carney has accepted the position.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Stolz, of Kahului, soon visit Olinda. The gentleman wishes to elude the grasp of malarial fever at Idlewild if possible.

POLITICS.

It has been the calm after the storm all over Maui during the week, and the wonder of it is that things move on much as usual.

During Saturday, the 21st instant, and the days since then, Messrs. W. H. Cornwell and John Richardson have been circulating a petition in Wailuku district, and John Kalana and Rev. J. Kamakele have been doing the same service in Makawao. This document is of rather an innocent nature, so they say, simply expressing disapproval of the existence and modus operandi of the new Provisional Government of Hawaii. Gossip has it that the paper has received some signatures from members of the party represented by the aforementioned gentlemen.

Madame Rumor goes on to state that it is desired to ascertain the strength of the opposition, and, if found sufficiently strong, another embassy will be sent to Washington, praying for a continuance of the monarchical form of rule under the sovereignty of Princess Kaiulani. As to whom this committee will include, report is vague and nebulous; the names of Messrs. Bush, William White, Ashford and Neumann are sometimes whispered.

The talk of mass meeting of natives was not held in Wailuku last Monday evening for some reason or other. It is thought to be inappropriate at present and will perhaps be called on some future occasion. Government employees have been taking the oath of allegiance all over the island, and there seems to be no reluctance in the matter.

THE WAILUKU MINSTRELS.

After two months of many rehearsals, numerous discouragements, resignations of members, etc., the Wailuku Minstrels gave a successful darkey entertainment at Wailuku school house during last evening. The large room and spacious stage of the old freemason building proved a most excellent place for an exhibition of the sort. Flags decorated the interior, and the platform wide and deep was conspicuous with its bunting adornments, its long red curtain and green footlights.

The Kahului R. R. Co.'s train brought a large complement of up-country people and the hall was filled with a complacent, interested audience. The long programme was creditably carried out and surpassed that of the Makawao boys in variety. Thirteen men took part in the overture, twelve of them advertising the "Rising Sun" stove polish complexion recently patented by Mr. Cooper of Paia. The proverbial evening dress predominated with the exception of the four end men who indulged their fancy in fantastic garb. Mr. Severin of Honolulu was interlocator and Messrs. Groves, T. Lyons, McGuire and Hurlbly sat at the ends of the horse shoe. The list of events is too lengthy to be mentioned in detail.

The audience seemed to highly appreciate the grotesque exhibition of Messrs. Groves and T. Lyons as tambo and bones; the sonorous and startling lecture of E. C. Carley on "Leap Year;" the clarinet solo by T. Rochfort; the clog dance minus clogs by J. McGuire; "Moriarity" and its finale by Geo. Groves; and the part of the Dutchman in the sketch "The Wailuku Hotel" (just after the election) by Mr. Severin. The receipts which must be $200 or more are to be donated to the Leper Settlement and to the Wailuku native church. This charitable idea originated with Mr. E. R. Biven, and he is also to be credited with much of the management and the conducting of the music.

HERE AND THERE.

The January literary of the Makawao Ladies' Aid Society was postponed last Wednesday evening owing to the death of Mr. Laws. It is said that it will take place next Tuesday evening, the 31st inst., in the parlors of the Paia Church.

In spite of many rumors, no Japanese woman has been recently cut to pieces in the Spreckelsville canals.

During Wednesday, the 25th inst., the sugar train en route from Hamakua to Paia depot, got away from the brakes, demolished several bags of sugar, and somewhat injured a native. It is customary for this train to bear sugar to Paia of its own volition (down grade) and to be pulled back by mules.

Apropos of Hamakua—it never did turn out 148 T. of sugar in twenty-four hours, but 148 cells, by diffusion, is its record; and as (on dit) there is an average of 500 lbs. of sugar to a cell, the result shows just thirty-seven tons as its large day's work.

Paia's record is 251 tons in one week.

Spreckelsville, so a sugar-boiler states, is turning out 140 tons per diem of 24 hours.

Next! The bark Alden Besse, Friis, master, is to be towed out from Kahului to-day and will take as cargo 3875 bags Paia sugar, 4908 from Haiku Plantation, and 9385 from H. C. & Co., making a total of 18,768, valued at $62,568.73.

The J. D. Spreckels is expected to leave Kahului for San Francisco next Wednesday, February 1st. Weather, cool and pleasant. Maui, Jan. 28, 1893.

A Wife for Sale.

The first recorded sale of a wife after the accession of George III. occurred in March, 1766. In this case a carpenter of Southwark, named Higginson, went into an alehouse for his morning draught; there he met a fellow carpenter, and their conversation turned on wives. The carpenter, whose name history has not recorded, lamented that he had no wife, Higginson, on the other hand, lamented that he had, and expressed regret that there was no way except murder by which he could rid himself of her. The carpenter assured Higginson that there was a way—the old English custom had made it quite lawful for a husband to sell his own rib. "No one would be such a fool as to buy mine," sighed Higginson. "I would do so," the other promptly replied, "and think I had made a good bargain, too." "Done!" shouted the delighted husband, who clinched the bargain on the spot.—All the Year Round.

Electricity is running about 500 street railways in the United States and Canada, a gain of nearly 200 in two years, and fully equal to half of the total street railway system of America. The investment in these roads has passed the $200,000,000 mark, but gives no sign in falling off to a lower rate of increase, for it was only in February, 1891, that the investment was estimated at $50,000,000. These roads are operating at least 12,000 cars, or two to every mile of track. These are wonderful figures of growth since 1887, when the first American electric railway statistics could present only the slim total of thirteen roads, some of which were in reality mere experimental stretches of track with but a couple of cars on them.—Ex.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

A Little Girl Rolls Down the Side of Punchbowl.

A most serious accident happened to a native girl about ten or twelve years of age Monday afternoon. A company of young native boys and girls and sailors from the Japanese training ship Kon-go were up Punchbowl Monday taking a bird's-eye view of the harbor and the city. After the youthful sight-seers had satisfied their curiosity looking at the two war vessels lying in the harbor and other commanding views, they left the top and descended slowly by the trail overlooking the Queen's Hospital. They had not come down far when a little girl was seen rolling down the sides of Punchbowl head first. The girl landed in a hole several hundred yards below. The Japanese sailors who were near hurried to pick up the girl and brought her body to the foot of the hill, where a large throng of people immediately surrounded the little victim. It was found that her nose was broken and the head was crushed in in several places; she was unconscious. Her father was sent for, and then the girl was taken to the Queen's Hospital. It is not positively known what caused the little girl to roll down. Some of the little girls who were present say that she stepped on a loose stone, but her little brother thinks she was knocked from behind.

This is perhaps the second accident of a similar nature that has happened on the slopes of Punchbowl. Over eighteen years ago a native boy from the Royal School was dashed down the slopes of Punchbowl in a similar manner and was killed. Some years later a native soldier was blown down by one of the old muzzle loaders formerly used for saluting.

A CURIOUS ISLAND.

A Native of Tasmania Tells of the Kangaroos and Tin Mines.

T. W. Reynolds, a native of Tasmania, son of the Major of Hobart, the capital, and builder and owner of an important coast railroad, is at the Palace. He has been in England on business and has just crossed the Atlantic on the Teutonic.

Mr. Reynolds tells an interesting story of the growth of the remote island on which he was born, and which he had never left till during this trip.

"The kangaroos and other curious game which were for so many years thick in Tasmania," he said, "are getting pretty well thinned out now. So many have been hunting them that they could not last. Our island is now mostly devoted to mining, though a good deal of grain and fruit is raised. We sent about two hundred thousand tons of soft fruits, that is, apples, pears, prunes and things of that kind, to England last year. The minerals are various, and are found in directly opposite directions, so that we get tin in one part, gold in another, and silver yet in another. The tin mines are very good, and are a source of large income. They were never more prosperous than now. They are even better than the world supposes them to be. None of the mountains are over 5000 feet high.

"The island now has a population of a little over 150,000, and Hobart has a population of 36,000. It is a solid, substantial town, and is growing steadily. When the early gold excitement occurred in California a good many pioneers of Tasmania came here, and many of them are here yet. Among them was an uncle of mine, now living on the Sacramento, and I will go up to see him in a few days."

Mr. Reynolds will remain here well on to a month. He is much interested in what he sees here.—[S. F. Examiner.]

What Constitutes a Gentleman.

A Kentuckian recently won a prize offered for the best definition of a gentleman, and his definition was: "A man of refinement and culture, whose aims are noble, whose truth is constant, and not only constant in its kind, but elevated in its degree; whose want of meanness makes him simple, and who can look the whole world in the face with a true, manly sympathy for the great and small."

Phil Armour, according to the Chicago papers, has a hundred dollars placed on his desk every morning, which he distributes in charity in the course of the day. His bill for luncheon often runs up as high as forty cents, while some of his clerks spend nearly a dollar. But then they don't have to drop a hundred dollars a day in charity.

WHARF AND WAVE.

The steamer Kaala made the round trip to Hanalei, Kauai, and back in thirty-two hours.

The barkentine Planter will load sugar after the Irmgard.

The bark Scotch Wizard and barkentine John Smith will finish discharging coal this week. They will both load sugar for San Francisco.

The German bark H. Hackfeld is now due from Liverpool; she is about 178 days out.

The Alameda on her last trip carried an order to Samoa for the return of the U. S. S. Alliance to San Francisco. She may be expected at this port any day this week.

The various coasting steamers brought 25,363 bags sugar from the other islands during Saturday and Sunday. The sugar will go to-day on the Australia, Irmgard, and several other vessels.

The steamer Kilauea Hou was taken on the Marine Railway on Saturday for repairs.

Arrangements were made for the trial of the Naval Academy practice ship Bancroft to take place on the 19th inst. in Long Island Sound. She was to be sent to Newport, and there given a trial over a mile course to standardize her propeller, and afterward speeded in the open sea to determine whether she can come up to the speed called for in the contract. Her builders are confident that they can exceed the requirement of twelve knots an hour by at least two knots. And if they succeed in doing this a handsome bonus will be their reward. After her acceptance by the government she will be sent to Annapolis in time for the summer cruise of the cadets.—Ex.
